THE SOUTH CONQUERED AT LAST.—The Columbia, South Carolina, Phœnix, of May 18th, has the following article. It will be observed that the chivalry of that State have serious objections to standing armies in their midst. A little while ago the great warriors of the Palmetto Kingdom pompously asked their "invaders" to "come on." Now it appears they are endeavoring to scold them away:

There is no good pretext for our conquerors keeping up any longer the shows and exercises of war in our country. On the part of the people of this State, and of every Southern State this side of the Mississippi, all struggle has ceased. There are no embodied parties anywhere making the slightest resistance. Our arms have been thrown down. We have neither arms nor munitions of war. No banner of the Confederacy now flaunts the sky. No commander calls upon troops either for fight or flight. The soldiers in scattered groups, foot sore, weary, in rags, and without means or money, are wending their weary ways homeward, to homes in ashes, doubtful of their future bread, and certainly without heart or hope in any prolongation of war or renewal of struggle. In this condition of things—a condition which is patent to all eyes, and can be questioned by none—the distribution of armed garrisons among the people throughout the country, and from the seaboard to the mountains, seems to be wholly without use, pretext or necessity, and may possibly lead to mischief. The country, in the first place, is in no condition to feed its own people, and we know too well the characteristics of all soldiers quartered among a conquered people to suppose that they will forbear to lay hands upon all they can find, without considering the difference between the meum et tuum—the mine and thine. A rude soldier—an arrogant, overbearing Captain or Lieutenant—may goad by his persecutions, the most quiet people into phrensy and lead to acts of desperation which will then be construed into war and rebellion, and bring punishment on the heads of the innocent and unoffending. We need hardly call upon our people to submit patiently—since to their several homes—succumb to a fortune against which they have been unable to contend, and seek to achieve the ends of life in the obscurities of a private and purely domestic condition. They wish only the privilege to do this. Let them work at their own grounds if allowed to do so, content to rear cabbages and potatoes, and forbear all considerations of politics, nor ask again what is done or doing in Congress, nor care to know who is in power, or who shall win the present plaudits of Demus. Let farmers substitute the potato-making for the President-making interest, and the craftsman attend to his workbench. "Ne sutor ultra crepidam," will prove a saving rule for those who have vainly striven to save themselves by quitting the last, the saw, the anvil and the hoe. Briefly, let them humble themselves to a state which the will of God seems to have decreed as fitting their deserts. In this humility they may probably deserve a more gracious countenance in future from that great Dispenser of judgment who rules the world now, however invisible and inscrutable, even as he did six thousand years ago.

It will be hardly possible for a people to remain at peace, or be allowed to do so, with armed and probably insolent garrisons quartered among them. Even if the provocations of power, dressed in brief authority, do not goad them to desperation, they will perpetually tend to raise discontent, to induce feverish restlessness—a perpetual anxiety—a neglect of all regular habits of industry, and a sense of surveillance and annoyance, which, in the end, must drive them into exile. So wholly unaccustomed have the American people been to this sort of restraint and surveillance that it will prove unendurable, and they will seek in other lands that refuge, that repose and quiet, that sense of security which is denied them in their ancient homes.

In the absence of all shows of war, and of all the materials for the struggle; in the spectacle everywhere of a people submitting to a fortune which, however revolting to their pride, is forced upon them by their necessities, in the state of a country torn, ravaged, bleeding and destitute, what is needed over all is rest, quiet, time for recuperation and the concentration of their energies upon the daily duties of domestic life. It may be that this recuperation is the very thing which our conquerors would deny. It may be that they would prefer that we should not recover, and that a hard policy will decree that, in order to prevent future disaffection, we shall be kept as hewers of wood and drawers of water, under a sort of Egyptian bondage. It may be that the dignities of State are to be thrown away, and reduced to a territorial condition, we are to be governed by satraps sent from abroad. To this, too, we shall perhaps, be compelled to resign ourselves; but, at all events, the sooner we are taught what our future status is to be, the better. We shall then the sooner be able to decide whether the refugee shall return to his home, prepared to recover what he can from the wreck, and repair by labor, the losses of fortune, or whether he shall abandon it forever—preferring escape to a foreign rule and region rather than struggle on in toils in that in which he labors under a constant sense of equal insecurity and shame. Our conquerors cannot deny us the privilege of exile, having reduced us below the condition of humanity.

Meanwhile we renew our exhortations to our people to subside quietly from view—to avoid the highway and the thoroughfare; avoid all discussion, whether of past or future; submit to the inexorable fate which seems to have the sanction of the Most High God, and striving only after the support of their families, and the peace of the household, and the improvement equally of the domestic mind and condition, afford no pretext to their conquerors which shall give any seeming justification to a resumption of conflict or the increased usurpation of power. Let us submit with what fortitude and patience we can command, until God will be pleased to heal our hurts of house and fortune.

THE UNITED STATES UNDER A NEW ASPECT.—We are called to contemplate the United States under another aspect. We have seen them, within these four years, grow from a pacific republic, with an army of only 18,000 men, to be the greatest military power in the world. We have observed the reluctance of the people to take up arms, and then the suddenness with which they responded to the challenge conveyed by the attack on Fort Sumter; the awkwardness with which they learned the ways of war; the gradual discovery and rapid promotion of Generals; the enterprise and inventiveness of those commanders; the bull-dog tenacity of the soldiers, as seen in the series of battles which brought the Army of the Potomac before Richmond, and in the second series which ended in the catastrophe of April 9th. Now we are spectators of another great transformation. On this side of the Atlantic the question has been asked with strong interest, but generally with incredulity, will the United States voluntarily lay aside these tremendous instruments of power? Is it not, rather, certain that they will be seduced by national pride to place their glory in arms and to assail their neighbors? And the intelligence brought by the Persia supplies an answer to these questions. The Northern peddlers, as they were contemptuously called, having beaten the "Chivalry" and broken their power, are ready and impatient to return to their shops and their plows.

The President has ordered a great and comprehensive measure of disarmament. The country is to return to the pursuits of peace, which form its ordinary vocation. Military stores are no longer accumulated, recruiting is stopped, the hired transports are dismissed, and preparations are being made to send to their homes the greater portion of the men composing Sherman's and Meade's armies. The internal restrictions on trade with the South are removed and merchants are going thither in the track of Chief Justice Chase, who is reestablishing the United States Courts overthrown four years ago. This return to a policy of peace at the earliest possible moment is very important. It is what those who had studied the Government and people of the United States most carefully had expected, and the disappointment of so many sinister predictions is one more warning to public men and parties, whether to seek the indications of the probable course of that Government and people in any given contingency rather in permanent character than in the speeches of stump orators, the cheers of an Irish transatlantic mob, or the leading articles of unscrupulous traders in "sensation."—London News.

[illegible] OF THE STATE

MONDAY MORNING, JULY 17, 1865

The Relics of the Evil

It is [illegible] that the American mind [illegible] and altogether freed from the prejudice [illegible] which many [illegible] themselves to believe in, and which [illegible] falsely, received the sanction of a solemn judicial decision—the doctrine that the [illegible] have no rights which the white man is bound to respect. In getting rid of slavery we are [illegible] expect it possible to eradicate immediately all the inequitable notions which slavery was [illegible] upon and which proceeded from a [illegible] of the elementary principles of justice. All acknowledge that the system of human bondage is at an end, but in many places men act [illegible] as if it were not. Now that they [illegible] ing so, the late masters graciously condescend to release the bondman from his toil. But in some instances they still manifest a disposition to use him for their own selfish purposes, and instead of being willing to concede to him the exercise of his own volition, and a chance to make his way alone without hindrance, they still think themselves entitled to dictate over him by prescribing how he shall work, the kind of labor he shall perform and the amount of pay he shall receive. They would have peonage to take the place of slavery. For slavery they would substitute a system worse if possible, than it. Regardless of the plainest dictates of nature, and careless still of every human right, they wish to have other persons entirely and perpetually under their control. In Virginia a combination of planters was lately entered into for this purpose but the military authorities promptly and properly forbade it from being carried into effect. The General Government has manely determines to protect all the people of the South, until local authority becomes able to do it.

A great error for whose existence slavery is responsible, is the feeling that the negro is not a human being. How could any of the rights which pertain to humanity be supposed to belong to a degraded chattel? In "Oliver Twist," Sykes tells Fagin, the Jew, that he was sorry he was not a dog, "for," quoth he, "the government cares for the lives of men like you, but lets a man kill a dog how he likes." If colored people are not human beings—and it appears many think they are not—there is no wonder that men suppose it right to deal with them just as their own convenience and interest prompt them to do.

In insisting that all men shall, without molestation, enjoy all their natural, and so many civil rights as a well ordered society shall deem it advisable to confer on them and safe for them to exercise, it is puerile and absurd to say that the social equality of all is demanded. Social equality nowhere exists. Civil regulations and restrictions cannot establish it. It is not proposed to pass any law which shall interpose with the conventionalities of society. These peculiar customs are above the law. No person proposes the amendment of any legislative decree which shall prescribe how the different classes shall associate with, or stand in relation to each other. Not social equality, but equality before the law, is what men seek. And this is what they will have, even though justice be compelled again to sharpen her sword for the purpose of giving the weak what their oppressors would deny them. Freedom is not freedom in the case of the emancipated slave when the despotism of prejudice is so powerful as to lead men to deny him all civil and legal rights. The relics of the great evil which has been nominally destroyed must not be permitted to remain. Returning justice will gradually grow in the hearts of men until freedom will become a full reality instead of an illusory promise of better things to those who have all their lives long eaten the bitter fruit of rewardless labor and hopeless servitude.

THE IMMIGRATION.—All accounts concur in the statement that great numbers of people are coming over the plains this summer. This immigration will be distributed throughout the whole country from California and Nevada to Montana. Eastern Oregon and the Territories adjoining us will no doubt, receive considerable accessions to their population during the autumn. It is probable, too, that many will come to our western valleys. Food, of course, will be much cheaper here than in the districts nearer the mines, and with large numbers, this circumstance will necessarily be a leading inducement urging them to come here. Considerable numbers of immigrants of last year are now located in this valley and their labor the present season will materially increase the amount of produce grown. The valleys east of the mountains have been receiving numerous settlers during the last two years, and it is likely that they will be well filled by the new comers of this summer and fall. The rigors of the winter season afford the greatest objection to permanent settlement there. Still, those who are looking for new locations will often deem it desirable to establish themselves as near the mines as possible since agricultural labor in those places will always secure larger and readier returns than can be had elsewhere.

Various considerations will cause many to decide to come further, with the purpose of locating in this valley and in the western parts of Washington Territory. The greater portion of our best lands are still uncultivated, and we should be glad to see an opportunity afforded to the immigrants to engage here in the occupation which is the true basis whereon the permanent prosperity of the country is to be built. We have too many persons who are so indolent that they will not cultivate their own lands, and so mean spirited that they are not willing to let other people do so even for the offer of fair rents. The large size of most farms renders it impossible for the owner to cultivate them without aid, and few employers have learned to manage so well as to be able to make hired labor profitable to themselves. Hence large bodies of excellent land, in every part of this valley lie untilled. Better than to permit old farms to relapse into their wild state, or new lands to go without tillage, would be the plan of endeavoring to induce cultivation by offering to receive low rents from immigrants and others who may desire to occupy portions of the large tracts owned by others. We know that farms were in request last fall, and presume they will be again soon and we trust there will be no indisposition to give leases to industrious people who may wish to settle in our farming districts.

THE NACHESS PASS.—We learn that the citizens of several counties on the Sound held a meeting at Steilacoom on the 10th inst. for the purpose of making provision to reopen the road through the Nachess pass so that immigrants can come directly over the Cascade mountains to the Sound region. Committees were appointed to procure subscriptions and persons selected to take charge of the work on the road. Five hundred dollars were given by the citizens of Pierce county at the meeting, and more has since been raised. Olympia has since given a large sum for the purpose. A working party will start during the present week to open the road. Persons who have visited it say that the work will be completed in twenty days. We are glad to see such a manifestation of public spirit among the people of the neighboring Territory.

Boise and Owyhee

[illegible], July [illegible]

NEW [illegible]

[illegible] I have never heard of any richer lead in the country both in gold and silver and nothing has been found so extensive [illegible] as this promises to be. I happened along just as the [illegible] had reached its highest and they were throwing out considerable quantities of the [illegible] sulphurets thickly sprinkled with gold. [illegible] Jennings, the Holladay boys of Corvallis, and [illegible] White and [illegible] Oregon City were among those securing interests. It appearances indicate that the mine can be profitably worked from the very commencement. It goes by the euphonious name of the [illegible] and Jennings lodge in the [illegible] merely instance that as something [illegible] under my observation and as a sample of Owyhee wealth which has many brilliant points in sight.

WHAT IS BEING DONE.

The Morning Star Mill is running steadily day and night. Minear has [illegible] but little. He cannot get rock to work, I am told and his mill does not save silver well. At least so is the general opinion expressed here. The Ainsworth Mill is preparing for work, being much improved and fitted for working silver ore to advantage. Mr. Bradford is here attending to it, and doing very well. [illegible] had a thousand [illegible] but when they were in their glory his [illegible] was interesting to hear and see. I advise his friends to get him to give his experience [illegible] As to mines the most of those interested are waiting for purchasers instead of working on the lodges. The Oro Fino and Morning Star lodges, as usual, are being thoroughly and extensively developed. Each sustains the reputation already won and would pay well if one hundred stamps could be at work on them instead of sixteen.

Other lodges need but development to give them, perhaps, equal reputation. Judicious mining will be repaid though much money has already been thrown away here by bad management. I notice the Columbia, Nondescript, consolidated claims are being worked and show remarkably well. Eureka, [illegible] Calaveras, War Eagle, Silver [illegible] and a host of other well known lodges, do not appear to be developing at present. Capital is needed here, and when that comes and is well expended, the wealth of Owyhee will appear to the world.

A CHAMPION FOR CHICO.

I find here an old acquaintance in the person of Mr. Vincent, some time connected with the Pioneer Hotel at Portland, who is now interested in the champion for, and the agent of the Chico route. Immediately on my arrival he attacked me as an opponent, and having nothing better to do I have accepted the gage and given him battle. The other afternoon I was sitting on the store steps, whittling in the absence of striking items, when Vincent rode up triumphant. Said he, "Just wait a minute and see a train in from Chico in ten days." I waited, of course. Soon along came ten travel stained, wayworn and dusty individuals mounted on weary ponies. I hailed one among the first with "How long have you been on the road?" "Two months," said he, "d—n the road." "You are prejudiced," said I. "Go to —," whereupon I recommenced whittling. I tried another, the last of the crowd. "When did you leave Chico?" "Eighteen days ago," was the reply, with sundry epithets applied to Chico that didn't sound polite. They may have come through in ten days but they didn't see it, neither did I. Two days since Vincent took me down to show me some teams that came through from Sacramento in a month. One of the teamsters said they were thirty five days out, thirty one of which were spent in actual travel. They had spare animals and were able to make good time on that account. According to his statement, they traveled seven hundred and fifty miles coming from Sacramento here, which I consider an error, for although the road is not direct as traveled at present still the distance from Sacramento by this way is only four hundred and fifty miles and the road ought not to be so long and devious. The people of California will make the best of that road and those of Nevada will do what they can for the road by way of Humboldt, which last, by the bye is preferred by many to the other. The teamster alluded to above said he had traveled both and would prefer the Humboldt road. The proprietor of the teams, whom I have since met, says California can take the Owyhee trade he thinks, but cannot successfully compete for the business at the other points east of here in Idaho Territory.

If the O. S. N. Co. will carry out their plan to place a steamer at or on Snake river above Burnt river that will lessen the land travel to 200 miles and take off 100 miles of the worst road which is along Snake river. By so doing, they may successfully compete for the Owyhee trade and travel at least until the iron horse crosses the Sierra Nevada range and goes eastward over the plains. Oregon needs enterprise. Let her capital [illegible] put forth the requisite energy, and the Columbia will be the greatest highway on the rivers of the west.

So far my friend Vincent has not made much off me. We have the best natured encounters daily, and while I do not doubt that California will develop her energies to [illegible] and travel it considerably, I still have time enough to spare to investigate the matter and tell Vincent what the Chico passengers say about Captain Pierce and his road.

NOT YET A SUCCESS.—In the Sacramento [illegible] of the 8th inst. we [illegible] the proceedings of a meeting held [illegible] composed of teamsters and others interested in the Chico route to Idaho. It appears that those parties [illegible] certain that it is practicable to [illegible] freight through by the route proposed. The character of the road is not yet sufficiently understood to satisfy teamsters that it will pay to undertake the transportation of goods at the prices offered. Two agents were chosen who are to be sent through to ascertain from actual observation whether the road is easily passable for loaded wagons. It was stated that two wagons which started from Chico for Boise six weeks before had got through. We have heard a great deal about vast quantities of goods being carried through on this route but from the best of [illegible] we are led to think that these statements have been greatly exaggerated.

MISSING.—On the 5th inst. says the [illegible], several persons saw [illegible] the plunger Blue Bonnet for San Juan Island. [illegible] the plunger was found [illegible] New Dungeness bottom up [illegible]. There were no signs of those on board [illegible] feared they are lost. The [illegible] of the [illegible] has the following additional particulars:

Allen Francis, Esq., U. S. Consul [illegible] that there were five persons on board Blue Bonnet when she left this harbor, who are all missing. Their names are as follows: Christian Goblin of New Orleans, John [illegible] Steilacoom, [illegible] Clark [illegible] San Juan Island [illegible] Madden [illegible] Indian [illegible]

DEATH OF MRS. SIGOURNEY.—Mrs. Lydia H. Sigourney, the celebrated authoress, died at Hartford [illegible] on the [illegible] of June. Her published works [illegible] volumes, many of which have circulated very widely. She was nearly seventy [illegible] at the time of her death. Her maiden name was [illegible] Huntley. She married Mr. Sigourney of Hartford in [illegible].

Letter from Traveler

NEW [illegible], [illegible] June [illegible] 1865.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

As one enters New England from the extreme west he is liable to be disappointed. He comes perhaps, with the idea that those extreme eastern States have been depleted of population so often and so long that they must now show marks of decay. It is supposed that the enterprise and the [illegible] growth have passed to the middle and western States of the Union, and especially that the war has reduced the resources and strength of New England, rendering it more desirable for her sons to move away than to remain. The fact is otherwise. New England is still new. She is more vigorous than ever. Her fields and farms are as fresh and as fruitful as they ever were. Yesterday I walked over fields which have been cultivated for two hundred years and which have been always owned by the same family, and the orchards and grass and grain and vegetables, were as promising and luxuriant to the eye as those of our new lands in Oregon. The noble old elms, apple and pear, butternut and walnut trees look the same as they looked to me thirty six and thirty eight years ago. The old stone walls seem lower, all objects seem smaller, distances seem shorter than they did to my boyhood eyes, the hills only appear like mounds and the meadows like small patches of grass. The houses share in this idea of diminution, but yet there is the same life and thought in the people. The farmer works as hard, perhaps, and accumulates as surely as his ancestor. He has more comforts, more style, more modern ideas, still he is a farmer, an orchardist, or a gardener, drawing his support from the same soil that furnished sustenance to his ancestors. He has some advantages. He turns his milk out, the market, which is brought to his door by manufactories, or by the railroads. His products go at once to the paying consumer. Exchange is quick, what he wants from abroad comes easily to his hand. The profits are smaller, yet they are more frequently made. What is true of the farmer is true to a greater extent of the fisherman. The sea gives of her abundance as freely now as two hundred years ago. The fisherman finds his market extending and expanding from the old shore far back to the interior, and even across the middle and western States. He derives wealth from the agricultural and mineral regions, in furnishing them the products of the sea.

The manufacturer plies his mechinery of all kinds by water or steam and sends his goods and wares to fill the stores and warehouses along the lakes and rivers of the west, supplying every known want. From the very frosts of winter are profits of wealth, for the ponds, with their thick covering of ice, are the harvest fields of the ice merchant, the tropical regions being his unfailing market.

Skill and inventive genius here have a genial home and abound toward. The manufactories multiply in number and in labor-saving machinery. The very rocks, so barren of old, are now quarried for buildings, tables and tomb stones. [illegible] active and enterprise as improving ever and are as fresh and buoyant here as ever before. New England does not grow old. May this cluster of glorious States remain forever young.

TRAVELER.

RETRIBUTION.—Albert W. Ray passed through Nashville to his home, near Livingston springs a few days ago as a paroled prisoner. On his way home he boasted of having murdered seventeen men during the war, and apparently took delight in describing the agony of his victims. Intelligence has been received that the blood stained villain had no sooner reached his home than death arrested him at the hands of a relative of one of the murdered men.

JOHNSON'S ISLAND AS A REBEL PRISON.—[illegible] has been selected as the prison where all the rebel officers who refuse to accept [illegible] terms prescribed by President [illegible] proclamation will be kept until a [illegible] of them. Less than [illegible] millions [illegible] by the last Congress are now in the market. This amount, at the rate at which it is being absorbed, will all be subscribed for within four months, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium, as has uniformly been the case on closing the subscriptions to other Loans.

In order that citizens of every town and section of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the loan, the National Banks, State Banks and Private Bankers throughout the country have generally agreed to receive subscriptions at par. Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and who only are to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders.

United States District Court.—July [illegible]. [illegible] Torrence—indictment for perjury [illegible] return. Defendant arraigned and pleaded not guilty. [illegible] of defendant [illegible] absent [illegible] case was continued until the next term [illegible] admitted to bail in the sum of [illegible].

[illegible] U. S. vs. Alexander Dodd, [illegible] duties on salt. Tried by the Court without the intervention of a jury. The Court found that the defendant in the month of June 1864 became the purchaser of [illegible] pounds of salt imported into this District [illegible] of the same month. During the same month the defendant made a verbal application to enter the salt for [illegible] which was granted and the salt discharged [illegible] to him in pursuance thereof [illegible] On the 2d of July a formal written entry of [illegible] was made, and sworn to by the defendant [illegible] fixed at $1,061 89. The defendant [illegible] on the duties, and the balance remained unpaid [illegible] was given against the defendant for the [illegible] with interest upon the same from the 2d of July [illegible] act of the last Congress a judgment for duties [illegible] that fact, and then it must be paid or collected in [illegible] with the interest and costs. The principal [illegible] in this case arose in this way. During the months [illegible] and June, 1864, fifty per cent. additional duty [illegible] on goods imported into the United States [illegible] those months. On the 30th of June an act passed [illegible] in effect that goods then in the public stores [illegible] warehouses not entered for consumption [illegible] only pay duties according to the act which [illegible] of salt, was fifty per cent less than the rate in [illegible] of May and June. The Court held that these [illegible] not in the public stores or bonded warehouses [illegible] of June, [illegible] and not [illegible] within the [illegible] of the act of June 30th, 1864. Court adjourned [illegible] day.

Ferry Boats.—The rapid development [illegible] improvements [illegible] street will soon effectually close up the flat-boat [illegible] of our corporation. We do not wish to disregard [illegible] to be derived from a safe and comfortable [illegible] of the river and we cheerfully acknowledge that [illegible] is entitled to credit for his efforts to supply [illegible] of community by putting on the line a first [illegible] boat, such as he is now building at the foot of Salmon [illegible]. But at the same time we can see no method for [illegible] crafts, except at the inconvenience [illegible] unless regularly established slips are made for the [illegible] When the new ferry boat is in complete [illegible] Mr. Knott will have a sum nearly approximating [illegible] invested in the ferry at this place, which in [illegible] original purchase of the right [illegible] has added from time to time since that date. How [illegible] to us with that amount of money invested in [illegible] the owner or company owning the same [illegible] a wharf to land their passengers, stock, &c. [illegible] the ferry business a wharf would constitute a slip [illegible] to embark at or disembark from. There is no [illegible] wharf in Portland, notwithstanding two lines of [illegible] and a capital of nearly $50,000 is engaged in the [illegible] making landings every ten minutes of the day [illegible] have been and still are similar to the landing at [illegible] Ferry on Snake river and every other ferry [illegible] to exist in the wilderness—simply a landing on [illegible] streets were allowed to be cut down [illegible] to afford such landings. Now it is time [illegible] to improve the great channel parallel with the [illegible] and the places dug out to get to the ferry boats [illegible] filled up—there is no [illegible] and until there is it will be an unsettled question [illegible] right policy we conceive to be [illegible] the establishment [illegible] wharves for ferry boating.

Plat of the City.—That the plans of the [illegible] of the plat of Portland have not been fully [illegible] is well known. When the town of which Portland is the city, was laid out several blocks and lots [illegible] public for the benefit of the city. The Levee [illegible] School House blocks, Church blocks, &c. were liberally calculated to beautify and adorn the [illegible]. The Levee property was taken possession of and the city front rendered hideously mean by jumpers, [illegible] with donations of the streets leading to the river [illegible] Councils, until to day there is not one [illegible] scarcely within any reasonable distance of the [illegible] portion of the city, where a cargo can be unladen [illegible] scow, steamer or sailing vessel, for toll [illegible] city corporation, that is not subject to wharf [illegible] city has no front unless the [illegible] are drawn [illegible] that knows no discrimination. The [illegible] of the city property were also jumped and [illegible] thus taking possession of them undoubt[illegible] or their assigns now may think, they have [illegible] of it; but we are pleased to notice that there [illegible] on the part of the Council to test the [illegible] all such titles. Portland has been a noble [illegible] has stood calmly meditating affairs, and suf[illegible] to be falsely and unfairly plucked. In order [illegible] individuals as had nests insight [illegible] enabled to [illegible] but let us hope that the time for such [illegible] and that retribution may follow swift on the [illegible] offenders.

Collision.—On last Friday night the steamship [illegible] S. [illegible] De Wolf, commander, [illegible] the barkentine Jane A. Falkinburg, Capt. [illegible] up, ran together in the Columbia river a [illegible] below St. Helens. The particulars of the [illegible] given in our marine list, by the memoranda [illegible]. The river at the point where this accident [illegible] is very wide so as to admit of the free passage [illegible] four or five ships, and the cause of the catastrophe [illegible] known to us. We conjecture that the steamer [illegible] take into account the speed making by the [illegible] and in an endeavor to pass on the port side found [illegible] when too late to prevent collision. The [illegible] was passing load at the rate of three miles [illegible] against a current of three knots, under a strong [illegible]. The steamship was passing down under [illegible] of steam, with the current in her favor, hence both [illegible] were making fast time and their collision must have [illegible] a stunning one. The damage to the vessel is about [illegible]. The steamship was not [illegible] damaged [illegible] the injuries sustained [illegible] above water lines [illegible] prevented any loss of life or damage [illegible] The Brother Jonathan was temporarily repaired at Astoria after which she proceeded to sea, and the vessel is [illegible] at Couch's wharf in this city.

[illegible] Pilotage.—The Captain of the steamer John H. [illegible] and one of the Columbia river pilots appear to be [illegible] So much does this making of wry faces [illegible] them affect community that the commerce of [illegible] is beginning to suffer by it. On the departure of [illegible] from Astoria the Cambridge [illegible] waiting to be towed to Portland, but [illegible] had secured the services of the river pilot [illegible] table in the eyes of the steamer captain [illegible] towed. We have nothing to say concerning [illegible] of any set of childish men, so long as they [illegible] with matters of public interest, but this [illegible] has been brought to our notice, and we feel like [illegible] the acts of the party at fault with condemnation. [illegible] a perishable cargo, but even were this not [illegible] the present facilities for towing vessels up and [illegible] river, they are long enough delayed [illegible] the ultimate consumers of trade without detention [illegible] the spleen of one man to another.

A Dangerous Topic.—In the Council on Friday evening Mr. [illegible] arose to direct the attention of the Board [illegible] to which the city was exposed by [illegible] of powder on the east bank of the river. It was [illegible] that there were [illegible] the material and [illegible] equal to [illegible] of powder [illegible] formed at [illegible] the accidental [illegible] her was [illegible] the city, and [illegible] disquiet [illegible] to be [illegible] existed in the [illegible] of the [illegible] beyond the [illegible] possibly [illegible] what [illegible] stored within such a short distance [illegible] cause for alarm from the danger [illegible] to the Council and [illegible] for investigation.

Sewers.—Street Commissioner [illegible] of the Council [illegible] sewage [illegible] leading from a westerly direction to the river [illegible] to form a drainage [illegible] at least [illegible] shall be done [illegible] Sewage is [illegible] to keep the city in any decent order [illegible] should favor the proposition of the Commissioner [illegible] work done before it becomes necessary to take up the [illegible] on Front street and be quietly but surely get [illegible] of the abominable stench [illegible] filthy to talk of.

Cariboo.—A correspondent of the S. F. Bulletin, writing from Cariboo, June 5th, gives the annexed description of the mines of Williams' creek, one of the richest sections of British Columbia:

The valley of Williams creek is about two miles long, and from a quarter to a half mile wide above and below the canyon. It contains at this writing about 5,000 inhabitants, chiefly miners. They are huddled off into what may be called three camps. The first (or one farthest up the stream) is dignified by the name of Richfield; the second is Barkerville, and the third Camerontown. Along the base of the mountain on each side the water, in the different camps are situated rows of stately buildings, ranging all the way from 7 by 9 to 8 by 10 feet in size, and from 9 to 10 feet high, in many of which are domiciled half a dozen sturdy honest miners—men of brawny arms, brave hearts and indomitable wills. They deserve rich rewards for the toil and deprivation they suffer, but alas alas, how few of the great mass succeed in accomplishing the object of their ambition, a great fortune.

Williams creek was discovered by a man of that name in the spring of the year 1861. Previous to that time mining in British Columbia had been chiefly confined to Fraser river. The first claims were located in what is called Richfield, the best of which are Cunningham's, Steele's, Abbott's and Adams', all of which paid richly and caused an immense rush of population. Fraser river, Harvey and Antler creeks, but all their charms, 8½ and 8¾ diggings were left in August for the great center of attraction, where gold of the finest quality could be scooped up by the shovelful. After all the claims had been taken up in the valley, (which is not more than half a mile long,) above the canyon prospecting to a considerable extent was carried on there, but no gold was found. At length an idea presented itself to the mind of an old Californian miner, that by some strange convulsion of nature the bed of the creek had been changed, and that by tunneling into the earth a distance of 200 or 300 feet, the old bed would be reached, and that large deposits of gold would be found. A number of resolute men formed themselves into association under the name of the Black Jack Company, and run a tunnel into the mountain in search of the old channel. At a distance of 230 feet, where they struck a lead that proved the theory of the old Californian to be correct, or at least the claim proved to be one of the richest ever found in the valley.

While this work of tunneling was going on by the Black Jack Company, a great rush was made down the creek for the valley below the canyon, and claims were taken on both sides for a distance of a mile and a half. The first pay that was struck, however, in this camp (now called Barkerville,) was by the Barker Company, which, after sinking a shaft about 45 feet, came upon a lead that has thus far abundantly paid every man connected with it for his labor, as well as the money expended in reaching it. Immediately adjoining this is the Canadian, the Diller, Wake Up Jake, the Ericsson and several others, all of which have in their day paid well, some of them turning out as much as $250,000.

Below this camp is Cameron, called so for a gentleman of that name who located the first claim there in the winter of 1862, and which paid at the rate of about $1,000 a foot. In this camp is also the Tinker, Caledonian and Moffat claims—the latter, however, has swallowed up much more than it has yielded. The celebrated Raby claim is also in Cameronton. It was located by Martin Raby, an old Australian and California miner, on the 24th of August, 1862. This, like most of the other claims, has ten stockholders, each man representing 100 feet of ground, and I am told by Mr. Raby that this claim has yielded a fraction over a quarter of a million of dollars. He also tells me the cost of working the claim has thus far amounted to $100,000, leaving $150,000 for the company, or $15,000 for the individual members, which amounts in round numbers to a salary of $5,000 a year to the holder since the claim was opened. In close proximity to the Raby claim is the Prince of Wales, which paid well for a couple of years, but is now worthless, having been completely worked out. In fact this point appears to be the end of the gold region in the valley, for although many claims have been opened farther down, and thousands of dollars, perhaps millions have been expended, nothing worthy of consideration has been found. A company called the Richfield have spent something over $70,000 prospecting below the Prince of Wales. They employed the most perfect and powerful of modern machinery, but all to no purpose. Experienced Australian and Californian miners declared it a failure. There are many other claims than those I have mentioned, some of which have paid largely, while in others thousands after thousand have been sunk, and where fortunes will yet be accumulated as well as lost.

Jeff Davis' Conduct while in Confinement. Fortress Monroe, June 5, 1865.—We have the arch rebel still among us, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding. He has not stirred out of his casement since the day he was first immured within its thick stone walls. He has not taken a single excursion up the Potomac since his incarceration, either on gunboat or monitor. In fact Jeff is closely guarded, twenty six armed men stand guard over him night and day. Two soldiers with loaded and bayoneted muskets pace incessantly to and fro in his cell. These dungeon sentries walk in opposite directions to each other, to and fro across the cell. The prisoner is always under the eye of one of them. A commissioned officer too, continually keeps watch and ward within the cell.

Since the removal of the irons Jeff Davis takes his confinement more resignedly. He is socially disposed, and is ever opening conversation, which cannot be kept up, as the officers are not allowed to talk to him. There is neither chair nor table in his cell. No books nor papers are allowed him, neither pen, ink, pencil nor paper. There are exceptions in the way of books. Two volumes are allowed the prisoner—the Bible and Book of Common Prayer. These two are certainly the two books of all others most needed by Jefferson Davis.

Clement C. Clay bears his confinement with the same dignified philosophy as at its commencement. He occasionally expresses concern for Mrs. Clay. Clay is an inveterate smoker; tobacco is furnished him, and the most of his waking hours are occupied in puffing the soothing weed. His food is regular army rations, of which he partakes but sparingly. His cell is barely furnished as is that of his chief in crime. The only books permitted him are the Bible and Prayer Book. Writing materials and the newspapers are rigidly excluded.

The casements where Jeff and Clay are confined possess one great advantage in the hot weather now upon us. They are delightfully cool in the hottest days of summer.—Phil. Inquirer.

Jefferson Davis at Fortress Monroe.—He now walks his cell almost constantly, and amuses himself as he approaches either wall by trying to put his finger in the [illegible] that [illegible] the white washed surface, but they invariably, like the throne he sought to grasp, elude him. He talks in a loud strong voice, and is very unjust [illegible]. The privates have strict orders not to speak to him, yet occasionally they will answer a [illegible] —Herald [illegible]

A Fine Article for the Teeth.—The fragrant Sozodont appears to have taken a very prominent place among the most approved dentifrices of the day. It is a very popular article for the toilet, highly recommended by all who have used it as a beautifier and preserver of the teeth, refreshing the mouth, sweetening the breath, arresting the progress of decay, and otherwise benefiting the user.—Boston [illegible]

How and Why Mason was Snubbed by Earl Russell.

The Atlanta Georgia Intelligencer makes a curious statement concerning the rebel agent Mason and Earl Russell as follows:

It is said that after Mason had sent a number of diplomatic notes to Lord Palmerston or Russell (we do not remember which) he was formally notified that on a certain day he would be received in his diplomatic character, and an audience granted him in London. Two days in advance of the day named for his reception Mason repaired to London, to await the summons of the British Minister to the appointed conference.

The day passed, however, and no usher appeared to introduce or convey Mason to the British Minister's presence. Another passed and he was still neglected, and yet another with the same mortifying result. Vanquished at this treatment Mason, who had many personal friends at court, made it known to them and they, it is said, expostulated with the British Minister at his cavalier treatment and neglect of a gentleman who had been invited to London on an official card and on official business. Whereupon the following, in substance, was tendered as an apology for the treatment, by an official of the Government:

That the invitation given Mason to visit London and have an interview with the Minister, and at the time specified, was given in good faith, but on the day preceding a deputation, representing the united cotton manufacturing interests of Great Britain, had been granted an audience, during which they protested against any recognition of the Southern Confederacy by that Government then or in the future. That then England was upon the verge of general bankruptcy, owing to the vast accumulation of manufactured goods of every description, and stored away in every warehouse almost in the kingdom, amounting to a supply more than sufficient for two years' demand, besides enough of the raw material on hand to last them for at least two years more.

That if the war continued, England would be saved from general bankruptcy and nothing else could save her. That even if the South were conquered, slavery abolished, and the labor to grow the staple withdrawn from it entirely, it would be better for England and for its manufacturing interests. The former could vigorously encourage the growth of the staple in her East India possessions, and the latter could have time to get rid of their accumulated stock of goods to manufacture their raw material then on hand and to prepare their machinery for the manufacture in future of coarser East India staple. The facts and the argument prevailed. The British Minister was sorry, very sorry, but Mason could not be received. [illegible] Southern Confederacy must take care of itself.

The Intelligencer asks why this intelligence was withheld from the people at the time it was communicated to the Confederate Senate, and adds: "Had the delusion been removed from the people's mind of cotton being king, or of foreign recognition, the war might have closed two years ago, with less advantage to Great Britain and more to the South and the United States than at this late day. But crimination and recrimination are now out of place. Cotton is not king—was not, and never can be, king. This, like some theories of our Government, to which the South has given credence and long maintained, such as are embraced in the doctrine of State rights and State remedies, are henceforth to be and must be considered baseless political fabrics. One people, one Government, united for the general welfare, at peace, at peace if it will let us, with all the world, but united against it whenever assailed. And so we go for a new, and, we trust, a peaceful and prosperous future."

WISTAR'S BALSAM
—OF—
HAS BEEN USED FOR NEARLY HALF A CENTURY,
WITH THE MOST ASTONISHING SUCCESS IN CURING
Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Croup, Liver Complaint, Bronchitis, Difficulty of Breathing, Asthma, and every affection of the THROAT, LUNGS, AND CHEST, INCLUDING EVEN CONSUMPTION.

There is scarcely one individual in the community who wholly escapes, during a season, from some one, however slightly developed, of the above symptoms; a neglect of which might lead to the last named, and most to be dreaded disease in the whole catalogue. The power of "medicinal gum" of the Wild Cherry Tree over this class of complaints is well known; so great is the good it has performed, and so great the popularity it has acquired.

In this preparation, besides the virtues of the Cherry, there are commingled with it other ingredients of like value, thus increasing its value ten fold, and forming a Remedy whose power to soothe, to heal, to relieve, and to cure disease, exists in no other medicine yet discovered.

The unequalled success that has attended the application of this medicine in all cases of

has induced many physicians of high standing to employ it in their practice, some of whom advise us of the fact under their own signatures. We have space only for the names of a few of these:—

S. H. Finley, M. D., San Francisco, Cal.
E. Boyden, M. D., Exeter, Me.
Alexander Hatch, M. D., China, Me.
R. Fellows, M. D., Hill, N. H.

W. B. Lynch, M. D., Auburn, N. Y.
Abraham Skillman, M. D., Boundbrook, N. J.
H. D. Martin, M. D., Mansfield, Pa.

The proprietors have letters from all classes of our fellow citizens, from the halls of Congress to the humblest cottage, and even from beyond the seas; for the fame and virtue of Wistar's Balsam have extended to the uttermost bounds of the earth, without any effort on our part to introduce it beyond the limits of our own country.

TO GUARD AGAINST COUNTERFEITS,

After October 1, 1863, all genuine WISTAR'S BALSAM of WILD CHERRY for the Pacific Coast will be enclosed in a new wrapper, which will bear the portrait names of both Seth W. Fowle & Co., [illegible], Mass., and John D. Park, Cincinnati, Ohio, as well as fac-simile of the signatures of "I. Butts," "Sanford & Park," and "H. Wistar, M. D."

An Interview with Gen. Forrest—His Account of the Fort Pillow Massacre

MERIDIAN, Miss, May 11, 1864

Before the large chimney place of a small only room surrounded by a group of Confederate officers and men, the room dimly lighted by a small tallow candle, I first saw Lieut General N. B. Forrest, commanding a corps of cavalry in the rebel army. Forrest is a man of fine appearance, about six feet in height, dark piercing hazel eyes, carefully trimmed mustache and chin whiskers dark as night, finely cut features, and iron gray hair. His form is lithe, plainly indicating great physical power and activity. He was neatly dressed in citizens' clothes of some gray mixture, the only indication of military service being the usual number of small staff buttons on his vest. I should have marked him as a prominent man had I seen him on Broadway, and when I was told that he was the 'Forrest of Fort Pillow,' I devoted my whole attention to him, and give you the result of our conversation. My first impression of the man was rather favorable than otherwise. Except a guard of some hundred Federal soldiers, more than half a mile away, I was, with the exception of another person, the only Yankee in the room, and being dressed in citizens clothes was never suspected except by the landlord.

General, said I, 'I little expected to be seated by this fire with you.'

'Why so?'

'Well, because your name has been in the mouth of nearly every person for a long time.'

"Yes," said he, displaying the finest set of teeth that I think I have ever seen. "I have waked up the Yankees everywhere, lately."

"Now that you have time, General, do you think you will ever put upon paper the true account of the Fort Pillow affair?"

"Well," said he, 'the Yankees ought to know they sent down their best man to investigate the affair?'"

'But are we to believe their report, General.'

"Yes, if we are to believe anything a nigger says. When I went into the war I meant to fight. Fighting means killing. I have lost twenty nine horses in the war and killed a man each time. The other day I was a horse ahead, but at Selma they surrounded me, and I killed two—jumped my horse over a one-horse wagon, and got away."

I began to think I had some idea of the man at last.

He continued: "My Provost-Marshal's book will show that I have taken 31,000 prisoners during the war. At Fort Pillow I sent in a flag of truce, and demanded an unconditional surrender, or I would not answer for my men. This they refused. I sent them another note, giving them one hour to determine. This they refused. I could see on the river boats loaded with troops. They sent back, asking for an hour more. I gave them twenty minutes. I sat on my horse during the whole time. The fort was filled with runaway niggers and deserters from our army, men who lived side by side with my men. I waited for five minutes after the time, and then blew my bugle for the charge. In twenty minutes my men were over the works, and the firing had ceased. The citizens and Yankees had broken in the heads of whisky and lager beer barrels, and were all drunk. They kept up firing all the time, as they went down the hill. Hundreds of them rushed to the river, and tried to swim to the gunboats, and my men shot them down. The Mississippi river was red with their blood for three hundred yards. During all this time their flag was still flying, and I rushed over the works and cut the halyards and let it down, and stopped the fight. Many of the Yankees were in tents in front, and they were in their way, as they concealed my men, and some of them set them on fire. If any were burned to death it was in these tents. They have a living witness in Capt Young, their Quartermaster, who is still alive, and I will leave it to any prisoner I have taken if I have not treated them well."

"You have made some rapid marches, General," said I.

"Yes," said he; "I have 5,000 men that can whip any 10,000 in the world. Sturgis came out to whip me once, and was 10,000 strong. I marched off as if I was going to Georgia, and fell upon the head of his column when he least expected me, and, with 2,500 men, killed over 3,000, captured as many more, with all the trains and mules, and drove him back. I'm sent to kill every man in Federal uniform unless he gave up."

He spoke of capturing a fort from Col Crawford, in Athens, Ala., garrisoned by 1,500 men. Said he: "I took him out and showed him my force—some brigades two or three times, and one battery I kept marching around all the time. My men dismounted, leaving every fourth man to hold the horses, and formed the rest in front as infantry, and the darn fool gave up without firing a shot."

Speaking of Streight's capture, he said it was almost a shame. "His men rode among them and shot them down like cattle. They were mounted on sharp-edged saddles, and were worn out, and he killed several of them himself. Didn't hardly know what to do with them."

But the heart sickens at the infamous conduct of this butcher. He is one of the few men that are general "blowers" and yet will fight. Forrest is a thorough 'brave'—a desperate man in every respect. He was a negro-trader before the war, and in "personal affairs," as he calls them, had killed several men. He had a body guard of 160 picked men. These he placed in the rear with orders to shoot any one that turned back. I have spoken to numbers of Confederate officers and they speak of him with disgust, though all admit his bravery and fitness for the cavalry service. He has two brothers living, one of whom is spoken of as being a greater butcher than the Lieutenant-General. He is a man without education or refinement, married, I believe, to a very pretty wife. Any one would call him handsome. Any one hearing him talk, would call him a braggadocio. As for myself, I would take one-half he said, and only dispute with him with my finger upon the trigger of my pistol. When I told him I was a Yankee, and late upon a prominent General's staff, he looked about him and among his staff for corroborative proof. Volleys of this, ready prepared, poured forth upon his order. My not being a short-hand writer necessarily deprived me of the pleasure of a further contribution to this true history.

Two young Kentuckians were walking along the road when Forrest came up; he called them deserters and deliberately shot them. It appears that these young men were upon legitimate duty, and one of them under military age. The fathers of these youths are upon Forrest's track, sworn to kill him. Poetic justice requires that he should meet with a violent death. Probably 100 men have fallen by his hand. He says 'the war is played out,' that, where he lives, there are plenty of fish, and that he is going to take a tent along and don't want to see any one for twelve months. What a charming hero he would make for a sensational King of the Cannibal Islands.—Cor. N. O. Delta.

THE WASTE OF A CAMPAIGN.—The Raleigh correspondent of the New York Tribune gives the following illustration of the immense wasting of Johnston's army in the late campaign, drawn from an inspection of muster rolls:

The 46th North Carolina volunteers had two officers, three non commissioned officers and eight men—total 14.

The 48th North Carolina volunteers had two officers, two non commissioned officers and three men—total 7.

The 15th North Carolina volunteers had three officers, three non commissioned officers and fourteen men—total 20.

It required nine regiments of North Carolina troops to make a battalion of sixty one officers and men.

Five regiments of North Carolina troops had only footed up 15 [illegible] including brigade headquarters.

The 1st, 4th, [illegible] and [illegible] South Carolina cavalry mustered all told 200 men.

THE GOOD OLD DEMOCRATIC TIMES.—Since the 7-30 loan has been in the market the people of the United States have been subscribing at the rate of three million dollars as a daily average. Before the war Howell Cobb couldn't borrow a cent on a United States account. Yet the rebel papers north and south have for four years been mourning at the loss of the good old Democratic times!—Hartf'd Post.

A VULGAR ERROR CORRECTED.—The flattery with which our assembled working classes are apt to be [illegible] contributes to keep [illegible] higher attainments. [illegible] received with open arms [illegible] attribute it [illegible] themselves to the unequal [illegible] pride and prejudice of others, not to their own deficiency. But water is not the only thing that finds its own level. Genius, wit, learning, ignorance, coarseness, are each attracted to the like. Two coalers were overheard talking in the [illegible] they were at work. 'Lord!' said [illegible], 'I knew him well when he was a boy. Used to live with his grandfather next door to me. Poor as Job's turkey. But I ain't seen him since, till I heard him [illegible] the other night. Don't suppose he'd [illegible] with a ten-foot pole. [illegible] short memories, but I [illegible] how.' [illegible] you are in the wrong. There is indeed a great gulf between you and your early friend, but it is not poverty. I'd say that it is only a way you have of flattering your self love. For if you watch those who frequent your friend's house, you will find many a one who lives in lodgings, with the commonest things, plain carpets, cane-seat chairs, and one warm room, while you have a comfortable house of your own, with very likely tapestry and velvet in your parlor, and registers all [illegible]. No, sir, it is not because you are poor, nor because you work, for he is as hard a worker as you, though perhaps not so long about it; but because, begging your pardon, you are vulgar and ignorant, because you sit down in your sitting room at home with your coat off, and hat on, and smoking your pipe, because you plunge your own knife into the butter and your own fork into the toast, having used both in your eating with equal freedom, because your voice is loud, your tongue swaggering, and your grammar [illegible]; because, in short, your two paths from the old school house diverged. He kept up, yours did not; and the fault is not his. You both chose. He chose to cultivate his powers. You chose not to do so. Call things by their right names!—Gail Hamilton.

NO USE [illegible].—[illegible] on the Salisbury road, just outside of the town, there is a cemetery, the broad gate of which is well inclosed. Just at the entrance is a large receiving tomb with a high front and iron door. Neighbor L——, so called for want of a better name, had been out of town, and was on his way home. During his absence he had indulged somewhat in those libations which inebriate. Approaching the cemetery, supposing the tomb to be a tavern, and hitching his horse to the gate, he walked leisurely to the iron door and commenced knocking. The length of time he continued knocking, deponent saith not; he only knows that a gentleman driving by the scene halted and inquired of the man in search of the landlord under difficulties what he was about.

'Trying to wake the fellows up in here—can't [illegible]; should think they are all dead,' he answered.

'Why this is a cemetery, sir,' said the passer by, 'and you are rapping at the door of a tomb.'

'Am I?' said the man who took the information very coolly, 'then I guess it's no use rapping any longer,' and went off.—Springfield Republican.

A MELODRAMA IN TWO SCENES.—Scene First. A young "gent" discovered surrounded by his friends, who are jesting with him in regard to his attentions to a young lady.

Young Gent.—'Boys, I'll just tell you how it is. You see, I care nothing for the girl, it's the old man's pocket book I'm after.'

Chorus of Friends.—'Ha! ha! ha!'

Scene Second.—A parlor. Time 11 o'clock P. M. Young gent rising to depart. Hesitates, as if bashful, and then slowly remarks: 'Miss Matilda, excuse me, but you must be aware that my frequent visits—my attentions—cannot have been without an object.'

Young Lady.—'Ah, yes, so I've heard, and shall only be too happy to grant what you desire.' [Takes from the table a large parcel, and unfolding it, displays a large, old fashioned and empty morocco pocket-book.] 'This, I have been informed, is the object. Permit me to present it, and congratulate you that you will have no future occasion to renew these visits and attentions.'

THE REGION INUNDATED BY THE MISSISSIPPI.—The Vicksburg Herald of May 21st says:

We saw a party of gentlemen leaving here yesterday from Delhi, La., in a yawl. They said they would find water from 4 to 20 feet deep the entire distance from this city to that point. Over to De Soto, opposite our city, for four weeks past, the water has been up to the roofs of the houses, and steamboats could run over any part of it were it not for the timber. And such is the case with the whole swamp country. The whole country west of us for 400 miles is a wide waste of water.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction, even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION. IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

LILLIE'S LOCK OPENED In One Minute.

NEW YORK, September 2, 1864

F. TILLMAN, Esq., 318 Battery Street,
Between Commercial and Clay, San Francisco

DEAR SIR; WE NOTICE AN ADvertisement in your daily papers respecting the "security" of the Lillie's lock. We are aware that you well understand this lock, and, of course, will not allow yourself to be annoyed by such representations. We have just sent for one of our men at the factory, and he in our presence, opened one of Lillie's best safe locks, after it had been locked and the combination turned on

By One Blow of the Hammer

Against the knob on the outside, and thereby breaking the cast iron bolt inside.

The whole time employed in opening the lock was about ONE MINUTE. We send you this lock that your friends may not be deceived by false representations, etc.

Respectfully &c.,
A. E. TILTON,
WM. McFARLAND.

Any parties desirous of seeing the above mentioned lock, its insecurity and easy mode of opening, the same, can call at 318 Battery Street, San Francisco.

GLOUCESTER, March 26, 1864.

Messrs. TILTON & McFARLAND,
Safe Manufacturers, Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen: From representations made by Mr. Lillie, I was induced to purchase of him one of his

So Called "Fire Proof Safes."

On the 16th of February last, a fire occurred in our block which destroyed a number of buildings, and our own with the rest. We trusted our books, papers and all in the safe. After the fire the so called safe was taken from the ruins, and on opening it we found that Everything had been Destroyed!

We send you the safe, with what is left of the papers and you will see that not one of them is legible or strong enough to sustain its own weight. Having the curiosity to know how our neighbors fared in this fire, we noticed McKenzie & Hardy just opening their safe (TILTON & McFARLAND'S make) and its contents were found to be

In Perfect Condition

This led us to further investigation, and we found to our astonishment that from the large amount of combustible material in Messrs. McK. & H.'s cellar—such as lard, pork, etc., their safe was subjected to a much greater heat than that of our own, we being in the ninth [illegible] business and had but little in the cellar. There was another of Lillie's safes here subjected to the same fire faring, however, no better than ours.

Very respectfully
Your obedient servants
(Signed.) GEO. L. CHESBORO & CO

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES!

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

617 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL,
San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned to this State, after an absence of one year, during which time he has visited all the principal Hospitals of Europe, among them those of Dublin, London and Paris. The following celebrated hospitals of London are among those visited by the Doctor: Guy's, High street, Borough; St. Bartholomew's, Smithfield; St. Mary's, Cambridge Place, Paddington; Lock, Harrow road; St. Luke's, Old street; University, Gower street; Westminster, Broad Sanctuary, Charing Cross, Agar street, Strand, London, Whitechapel road; Royal Free, Gray's Inn road; King's College, Portugal street.

DOCTOR GIBBON has also visited Doctors Acton of London, Parker of Birmingham, England, and Ricord of Paris, who are considered the best physicians and surgeons in the world, and whose authority is acknowledged to be the highest in the treatment of Sexual Diseases.

DOCTOR GIBBON has derived from them their new mode of [illegible] which cannot be [illegible]

DOCTOR GIBBON has spared no time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with new facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Disease.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are dragging out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life destroying maladies, are that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, who, for years, has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all [illegible] in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

The newly invented Patent French Safe, a sure Preventive against Disease and Pregnancy, sent by mail. Price $2. Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 617 Kearney St., near Commercial, San Francisco. Postoffice Box 252.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders, who with bogus sworn to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco, are tradesmen, and became too lazy to work at their trade. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory and you will not find their Medical Institutes in it, but you will find their former occupations in it. Look at the Directory for 1862 and 1863. The only way [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Consultations FREE. [illegible]
